

MAPLE WOOD PLASTIC FIBER BOWLS

What makes our bowls different from all the others?
We design our bowls with a simple, old school wooden style.

These are bowls that look like they could have been hand crafted by a skilled wood worker, with some of the qualities of their full-size counterparts.

But our bowls are made using state of the art manufacturing processes and materials, right here in the USA. Everything we use to make our bowls- every sourced material, every tool and every supplier we use is American.

We've taken out 30% of the plastic and replaced it with organic materials. Sawdust, to be exact, from US furniture mills and window factories. This is combined with safe, certified clean plastic pellets to make our bowls. The organic material (sawdust) that goes into the bowls varies, so some colors will vary slightly. Though you can see the wood fibers in the plastic, the feel of the bowls is silky smooth.

Colors are molded in, not painted on. So there's nothing to flake off. No Phthalates, BPA, Lead or any other heavy metals are in our bowls. The plastic part of our bowls is Polypropylene, one of the safest plastics in existence. We also use a recycle cardboard in our packaging.

Our goal is to balance eco-friendly with safety and sustainability, while making bowls that are affordable and fun.

Enjoy our bowl collection as much as we love making them.
